David Lee Jones, Th.D.

Dr. David Lee Jones Appointed Program Director of the Doctor of Ministry

NASHOTAH, WISCONSIN, (February 13, 2018) Nashotah House is pleased to announce the appointment of David Lee Jones, Th.D. as Program Director of the Doctor of Ministry. As a renowned leader in ministry education along with his unsurpassed credentials, Dr. Jones appointment elevates the already distinctive Doctor of Ministry program offered at Nashotah House. Among his many accomplishments, Dr. Jones is one of a select few to have received all three of The Association for Doctor of Ministry Education (ADME) awards: The Barnabas Award; ADME's highest award: The Outstanding Leadership Award in Doctor of Ministry Education; and The Past President's Award.

"The addition of Dr. David Jones to lead our Doctor of Ministry program is a marvelous step forward for us and the latest sign of our commitment to providing a first-rate academic program. Nashotah House is in a unique position to refine a truly distinctive DMin program for priests and ministers who continue to grow in their vision and skill, and Dr. Jones is just the sort of leader who will make that happen." shared Interim Dean, Dr. Garwood Anderson.

Born and raised in Bloomfield, New Jersey, Dr. Jones was ordained a Deacon at only 17 years old and ordained a Presbyterian minister in October 1982, subsequently serving as assistant pastor of Southampton Presbyterian Church, Southampton, NY. He then graduated Valedictorian with a degree in Drug and Alcohol Abuse Counseling from Sullivan County Community College while serving as solo pastor of congregations in Jeffersonville and Roscoe, NY. Additionally, Jones completed a year of CPE at Grady Memorial Hospital in Atlanta, GA in 1988 and graduated from the Doctor of Theology program in Pastoral Counseling at Emory University in 1999. He next pastored two Presbyterian Churches in Atlanta Presbytery while finishing his Th.D. degree, where he received Atlanta Presbytery's Small Church Pastor of the Year Award.

Most recently, Jones directed Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary's Doctor of Ministry Program for almost a decade and served a two-year term as President of The Association for Doctor of Ministry Education. He is perhaps most well-known for studying and implementing the Bowen family systems theory over the past 35 years and is a sought-after speaker and consultant on leadership development and conflict management.

He has authored numerous academic articles and his essay, "Peace is Systemic," won first place in Bethany Theological Seminary's Peace Essay Writing Contest. He has been teaching adjunctively in the Seminary of the Southwest's (Episcopal) master's degree programs in Chaplaincy and Counseling since 2008.

In addition to Program Director of the Doctor of Ministry, Dr. Jones currently serves as an Affiliate Professor of Pastoral Theology at Nashotah House.
